THE Paris, the American line steam ship that was stranded on the rocks on the other sole of the ocean, some time ago, has been floated. The release was accomplished by putting 1,000 tons of granite in the stern of the vessel, which hoisted her bows free from the rocks.

THE immigration bureau reports that the increase in the number of immigrants landing here during the year ending June 30th, '99 ever that of the previous year will reach nearly 100,000. The increase is attributed to the prosperous condition of the times, employment being readily obtained.

STRIKES occur in good time as well as bad. In 1877 and in 1894 they occurred, when there was a stagnation of business all over the country. They took place in 1882, when trade was fairly active, and they are "on" now in many cities, though business is more brisk and wages are higher than for many years. In fact, there is a tendency to strikes when a disturbances are the only unpleasant feature in the trade situation. In comparison with the number of persons employed, of course, the number engaged in strikes is the smallest since the beginning of the decade. Moreover, in most of them the end is already in sight. There will be no such disturbance as occurred during the Debs insurrection of 1894.

Wanted An "Angel."

The Democrate of the country are casting about for that species of human being known to the stage as an "angel," and to the profling world as a "encker." the immediate need being a man or set of men who will furnish the material substance for the establishment and maintenance of a party organ for the ampage of 1900. It goes without my my that all plans rooking to the conduct. of a paper could as is wanted must in dusts a maintanance fund, since there and the recommercial or business field. to such a venture, and no source of revenue wave that provided by the tomately i

It is indeed a next singular and ex-Coordinary state of affairs that there should be a great and growing cause, backed by millions of people and supported to a deep rooted public sentiment, and yet no newspaper to call its very own no organ upon which it can fondly lay its band and say "This is my own" And yet such appears to be the fact. In New York, the metropolis of the country and the center of news, with the people everwhere. For sale by there is not a paper that will stand up Clark O. Proud. for Bryan and the divine ratio of 16 to

1. The Journal supported the silver cause in 1896 and established a circulation which has since been used to dis credit. Bryan and discourage the silver cause. Chicago is, so far as the Bryantes are concerned, in a perfectly organess condition, and only here and there a struggling sheet of limited circulation and less commercial credit will stand up and answer roll call when the bugle sounds the plarm of battle.

To meet these conditions it is seriously proposed to resort to the old Democratic expedient of taking up a collection, and the hat is to be passed under the noses of the faithful. It is expected there will be a ready response, and that men of the Mose Wetmore type will drop into the contribution box a fund sufficient to start a paper and keep i going, at least through the campaign of 1900. Thus far the plan has not met with the enthusiastic reception which its promoters predicted for it, but there s time for it to ripen and grow good. It takes a right smart sprinking of money to establish the kind of a paper that is wanted by the people who want that kind of a paper, and the field is pretty well occupied by journals that are in the business as a purely business matter, but there is a tremendous newspaper hole somewhere that will consume all the money that can be raised by the Democratic missionaries.

At any rate, and in any case, cerely hope the Democrats will find one 'angel" who will back their show. It will make things interesting for a while, and it will never enter for a moment into real competition with real newspap ers, any more than would the proposed religious daily. It would simply be the organ of a fad, and would die out even cooner than the fad.

Force the Issue.

Nobody knows what attitude the Democratic party will conclude to take with reference to the issue of expansion. BANKRUPT in health. but it reefs with the republicans to say what stadd the Democrats shall take on the money question. Let the Republi can party take a tirm stand and declare flatly for the maintenance of the established gold standard, and Democrary will have no choice but to the affirm the Chicago declaration for free coinage, and, if possible, to make it stronger. That done, the issue of the campaign is made, with no power of either party to dodge at

All that the Democrats are saving about expansion and impermism counts and all kindred diseases. for little now, and will count for less in the campaign of 1900. The real leaders of the party are afraid of such an issue, and are only treading water while they feel public sentiment. Before the presi dential campaign shall have been inaugurated imperialism will be even more than now a perilous issue for the Democrats to choose. Only the failure of the war in the Padippines could warm the public humor to oppose the administration, and that is such un extremely improbable result as to be scarcely worth figuring among the posor

The Democrats can never agree, even among themselves, upon a platform that shall declare for the forfeiture of the territory we have acquired through the ited. Spanish war, and anything short of that is just that much short of anti-expansion as that term is popularly under stood. Either we have or we have not a right to hold territory as spoils of war, and if we have the right to hold one grain of sand on the Island of Porto Rico, we have the right to hold every foot of territory ceded in the treaty of G. L. CEMMINS, Assistant Cashier. Paris. What we shall do with it and ow we shall govern its population are problems for the solution of congress ere matters of detail that can not be nade to serve as material for a campaign issue. The campaign of 1896 was won by the Republicans upon the usus of sound money, and no other. Sound money acts a general banking business. Inter-means money that will forever be worth est paid on time deposites. Special care given supply that kind of money. That is the kind of money the people wanted in 1896, and it is the kind they will always DANIEL ZACHMAN, want. It is what brought the return of prosperity, and as long as we have it we will have prosperity. Why should we wait for the Demo-rats to dawdle around and search for an issue? We can make their ssue, and make it the same upon which we defeated them before, only making it stronger and the defeat greater. There is nothing to be gained by quibbling and equivocation; we believe in the gold standard, and will maintain it. Why not say so in so many words and have ione with it.
